TERRIFIC BATTLE

In Progress Near Port Arthur

JAPS FORMALLY OCCUPY NEW CHWANG

The Final Assault on Port Arthur Is Believed to be Under Way After Three Days of Fierce Fighting

ATTACK ON PORT ARTHUR.

London, July 29.—Special dispatches from Shanghai and Yokohama report that a general attack upon Port Arthur has begun.

A report that General Kuropatkin is wounded seems to have originated at Tien Tsin, but it is not confirmed.

STEAMER IS SAFE.

Tokio, July 29.—The Pacific Mail Company's steamer Korea, which it was rumored, had been captured by the Russian Vladivostok squadron, has arrived at her destination safely. The Korea sailed from San Francisco.

NEW CHWANG IS JAPAN'S.

New Chwang, July 29.—Tatayama, the Japanese administrator of New Chwang, has arrived here and has issued a notification to the population that New Chwang and Yinkow are under Japanese control and that lives and property will be protected.

RUSSIANS BURN TA TEHE KIAO.

Tokio, July 29.—The Russians abandoned Ta Tehe Kiao at noon on Monday, July 25th, retiring before the advancing army under General Oku. They applied the torch to Ta Tehe Kiao and the surrounding towns and when the Japanese arrived they found the flames were still raging.

The Japanese pursuit ended beyond Ta Tehe Kiao, and the Japanese left wing occupied Yinkow. The position held by the Russians last Sunday, south of Ta Tehe Kiao, consisted of nine miles of trenches and fortifications.

TERRIFIC BATTLE.

Chefoo, July 30.—Terrific fighting has been going on for three days on land and sea at Port Arthur. The Japanese plan to begin the final assault Tuesday.

ORDERS COUNTERMANDED.

London, July 27th.—All orders for the British naval manoeuvres have been countermanded, and the various squadrons have been ordered not to move. All leaves of absence are cancelled and officers and men on furloughs have been recalled. The home and channel fleets have already been moved into position to undertake important manoeuvres.

Algiers, July 28th.—After a protracted conference on board the Malacca between the British and Russian consuls and Captain Schwartz, it was announced that the Russian flag would be replaced by the British at 6 o'clock this evening. Orders to surrender the Malacca were evidently a complete surprise to Captain Schwartz, who immediately after his arrival notified the French naval authority that he required six hundred tons of coal, and a good supply of water and provisions to take him to Labau in the Baltic. It was not until one hour later that the Russian consul, H. Towatz Eysky told him differently.

NAMAO

The fine rain of Thursday found some lay down—in all other respects it was a great blessing. Crops are heading out and the prospects for an abundant harvest are very flattering.

Much favorable comment is abroad regarding the road improvement of districts south of the correction line. It was left optional with the taxpayer as to whether his road tax should be paid in cash or labor, most of it being paid in the latter, honestly and squarely. The public can judge of the splendid results.

Shingling on the Methodist church sheds has been completed, making extensive and creditable provision for brute comfort while men worship.

Piebies! Piebies! If you have twenty-five cents left "salt it down" quickly for there is no saying how soon you may be called on to part with it.

Mr. Geo. Long and family are about to enter a well-deserved and splendid new house. It has a commodious brick cellar, furnace heated large rooms in two storeys, and a half-storey attic.

Mr. J. A. Carson has added to his fine frame stable put up last year, and also made improvements to his house.

Our very successful and much liked teacher, Miss Asher, is enjoying her vacation by making a wheeling trip amongst old friends. Recently she returned from a visit to Banff and other mountain scenes.

Rev. H. S. Osborne, of Shawville, Quebec, is spending some weeks at the home of Rev. T. C. Carson, visiting his sister, Mrs. Carson and his mother, who has been here for some months. The favorable impression made by the address of his brother, Prof. Osborne, two years ago, has created a special desire to hear his reverence while in our midst.

Mr. Davidson of Edmonton, has been buying many fat cattle here the past week.

Mr. Armstrong, of Sunnyside, has sold his property there to three young men just arrived from England.

Canadian Fruit At St. Louis

Contributed.

Leaving out California, Canada quite holds her own among the states and countries of America in her fruit display at the World's Fair. Even with California included, when real domestic value is considered, there is no exhibit in the horticultural pavilion that compares with that of Canada. Oranges are beautiful to look at and luscious to eat, but they can never take the place in household economy that the apple will and for apples, of high quality and almost endless variety Canada stands matchless.

In her display of apples alone Canada is showing ninety-four varieties in their natural state, just taken from cold storage. In addition to this fully fifty choice varieties are displayed in bottles preserved in liquid compounds. The average fair visitor expresses his surprise even at this apple display, but when he is confronted with from forty to fifty varieties of choice pears; an equal number of varieties of plums; seventy different kinds of grapes; cherries in endless variety, and to cap all, a long list of the choicest peaches, he lifts his brows in astonishment and asks: "Does all this fruit grow in Canada?"

In the smaller fruits Canada is equally well to the front. Her exhibit in this line comprises eighty jars of strawberries; sixty of red, white and black raspberries; an equal number of red, white and black currants; thirty of gooseberries; one dozen cranberries; twenty-five of crab apples, and a great variety of wild fruits. Intermixed with all this fruit are jars of preserved rhubarb; twenty varieties of tomatoes; golden wax beans; green peas; green and white cucumbers and almost everything that enters into household consumption in the way of fruit and vegetables. This varied collection, so artistically displayed as it is, is attracting much attention and provoking no little astonishment in the crowds of visitors who have heard of the emigration of western American settlers to Canada or the "Canada boom" as they call it and are anxious to learn what Canada can have in the way of fruits.

Conspicuous among the apples in their natural state may be mentioned the famous northern spy, the Fameuse or snow apple, of the St. Lawrence river districts; the beautiful McIntosh Red, and the Baxter or La Rue, all natives of what the Americans are pleased to call French Canada. Another attractive feature of the apple display is the very pretty yellow Transparent and the Duchess of Aldenbury, two early varieties of Russian origin, and a later native of Canada, called the Longevity, from its long keeping qualities. Among the smaller fruits, the monster gooseberries are receiving their full share of attention.

It is always pleasing to be able to win the approval and gratify the national pride of one's own countrymen away from home. But when one succeeds in attracting the attention and winning the compliments of the outside world, the pleasure is doubly gratifying. This Canada has accomplished to a marked degree by the horticultural display at the St. Louis Fair. Nor could she afford to do less at this particular juncture, when the mind of all America is upon the great unclaimed and unbroken lands of Canada. By the magnitude, variety and quality of the horticultural exhibits provided as an object lesson to the world at this great World's Exposition, Canada gives practical substantiation to all that has been claimed for her regarding the advantage of her temperate climate and the well nigh limitless variety of her products.

Great Labor Struggle

Chicago, July 28th.—All union teamsters have joined the meat strikers' ranks and no union team are delivering to the stock yards to-day. Seven hundred are out.

Two thousand persons yesterday saw one of the most brutal cases of slugging since the strike at the stock yards began. The strike breaker, John Mulrow, had just left the yards and had reached Forty-First and Halsted streets when three men, one of whom is John Doody, attacked him. Mulrow was knocked down and nearly killed. His nose was broken, his eyes cut open with terrific blows and one ear nearly torn off. The sluggers had not completed their work when five policemen interfered, whereupon the trio ran. The chase led through a crowd of strike sympathizers and the police were afraid to use their revolvers. In the crush two of the sluggers leaped into a laundry wagon and were rapidly driven away, but the third man was kept in sight and finally run down. He was put in a cell to wait a hearing in court.

Mulrow, when the excitement of the man chase was at its height, was found by friends, who quickly took him away before the police sought to give him attention.

Despite the fact that 25,000 or more regular employees are on strike at the stock yards, including a number who went out after the call for a sympathetic strike had been issued, all the big packing plants were declared to be in full operation to-day. Nearly every man who went out, it was claimed, has been replaced.

High Level Bridge

The Stratheona Plaindealer in its last issue says:

"Apropos to the suggested project of building a union high-level bridge between the towns of Stratheona and Edmonton, is the decree of the railway commission that the railways entering Toronto must all unite in a union station. Notwithstanding the established interests of the Grand Trunk and the lack of interests of the Canadian Northern in the city of Toronto, both they and the C.P.R. are expected to come together on equal footing. The idea is to form a company in which each of the railway companies would be partners to own and operate the terminal facilities of the railways in the city. Such procedure is what would be necessary in the event of a union high-level bridge being built here, with union stations in each town, and the tracks between them being used by all companies. In this case, of course, the Dominion government and the municipalities to the extent of their interests in the structure, would also be stock holders in the company and have a voice in the management. In not the time ripe for a public discussion of this matter, and should not the initial steps toward this project of so great importance to all concerned, be taken at once?"

Heavy Purchase of Land

Winnipeg, July 28.—One of the largest individual transactions in land ever recorded in the west, involving probably $750,000, has been completed by the purchase by E. W. Day, of Toronto, of twelve townships of land from the C.P.R. in Alberta.

The land included in the purchase comprises the C.P.R. holdings in townships 45, 46, and 47, in ranges 13, 14, 15, and 16, west of the 4th principal meridian. It covers all the C. P. R. land in twelve townships and includes about 120,000 acres.

The district begins at a point about 40 miles east of Wetaskiwin and runs towards Battle river. It is a territory well fitted for grain growing and stock raising and watered by two fine bodies of water, Quarrel lake and Wavy lake, and by the Iron creek on the east.

THE DUNDONALD AFFAIR AGAIN

On July 20th the subject of Lord Dundonald's partisanship and his consequent recall by the Imperial Government was discussed in the House of Commons. Mr. Oliver spoke as follows. Hansard report:

MR. FRANK OLIVER. Mr. Speaker, I might not be excused for taking part in this debate if it were strictly a military or militia matter, not being a military or militia man, but as it appears to be largely a political matter I take the liberty of addressing the House. The question, as far as I can understand, which has been particularly argued to-day is as to whether Lord Dundonald has or has not been exploited as a political issue by the Opposition party. Apparently that question has aroused the interest of a more important body than ourselves, apparently the decision has been that he has been made a political issue by the party of the Opposition, and apparently that decision has not found favour on the other side of the House. To-day we have had the same carried from treason by the hon. member for North Victoria (Mr. Hughes) to blasphemy by the hon. member for South Norfolk (Mr. Tisdale) in expressing their views in regard to this matter, the best possible evidence that the conclusion was correct. For my own part I think we might consider it a little different light. As to whether hon. gentlemen opposite are exploiting Lord Dundonald as a political issue or not. They have denied it, and reiterated the denial here to-day with a persistence that entitled them to the appellation given by Lord Beaconsfield to his opposition at one time; that is to say, an organized hypocrisy. For if any body of men have without regard to rhyme or reason used Lord Dundonald as a political issue it is our friends of the Opposition and their party press. I will not depend upon mere assertion to prove this. I suppose every one will admit that the Montreal "Gazette" is an exponent of the Conservative party, and its leading exponent, if the test of respectability is to be applied. In the Montreal "Gazette" of July 16, I find the following paragraph in its editorial notes:

"Gladwin Smith thinks a great wrong is being done Lord Dundonald by making his difficulties with the government a party question. There is no necessity for worrying. It will not be a party question after the Laurier government has been buried under the next election."

If that is not a plain and explicit statement by the leading and most respectable organ of the Conservative party, that with Lord Dundonald they expect to win the coming elections, I admit that I do not understand the English language. I will not burden "Hansard" with other quotations of similar character, but every gentleman of this House can read such expressions in the Conservative newspapers from day to day and from week to week. I cannot imagine what is the purpose of hon. gentlemen opposite in making the preposterous assertion in this House that they have not carried Lord Dundonald into their politics, for surely they cannot expect that the country, much less their own constituents, will believe it.

But, Sir, there is something more than this exploiting of Lord Dundonald by the Conservative party. I had noticed that their campaign had lagged considerably of late, until to-day the hon. member for Pictou (Mr. Bell), revived the silly slander against the Prime Minister in connection with his use of the word "foreigner" as applied to Lord Dundonald. I may be pardoned for putting this case in a way in which I have not yet heard it put. It is within the knowledge of every member of this House, and within the knowledge of every man in the Dominion who read the remarks of the Prime Minister, that instead of making the most remote allusion to Lord Dundonald as a stranger to the Dominion of Canada, the expression was simply applied to Lord Dundonald as a stranger in the eastern townships. A fact which no one will deny, and least of all Lord Dundonald himself. That being the case, the expression cannot be construed as being in any way offensive to Lord Dundonald, as expressing his position in or towards this country. When these gentlemen opposite carry on this campaign in such a way, and then come to the House and declare that there is no politics in it, it is an instance of hypocrisy that has seldom been equaled in this little world of ours.

The conduct of the Conservative party in this campaign, reminds me that when some nations which are neither honourable nor courageous are engaged in warfare, they place their women, their children or their hostages between their army and the enemy, and then should these be injured by the bullets of the enemy, they raise the cry that non-combatants are being slaughtered. If Lord Dundonald is not a party to this political campaign, then the Conservatives in this country are putting Lord Dundonald in front of their battle ranks and holding him there to receive the attacks that may be made on them. Then they complain that Lord Dundonald is attacked. Well, Sir, we will not attack Lord Dundonald; we will get around behind Lord Dundonald and just for the moment discuss the position of these gentlemen who are using him in this dishonourable way. The charge made by Lord Dundonald against this government; the charge that has a purpose; that means something to the people of Canada, is, that the government has neglected the militia force. That charge is the gravest one that could be made against any Canadian government, because it means disloyalty to Canada and disloyalty to the empire if it be true. I say, Sir, that this government does not suffer by a comparison of their loyalty to Canada or to the empire, with the loyalty of the governments which have preceded them and which are honoured by the support of the Conservative party. Who speaks of loyalty to the empire? The empire has been engaged in many wars during the last half century, but it was a Liberal government that first sent Canadian soldiers to take part in the wars of the empire. It was a Liberal government who did this, and Sir, it was the very government whose loyalty to the empire is called in question by members of the Opposition, and by insinuations made against it by Lord Dundonald. When has occasion arisen for the manifestation of loyalty to the empire, that the Liberal government of Canada has not responded? In case of war the instance is recent, in matters of trade the instance is almost as recent. It was a chief of the Conservative party who once said: If our tariff is bad for British connection, so much the worse for British connection. The followers of that chief are the men who to-day charge disloyalty against this government which has given the British manufacturer a preference in Canada and asked for his return. But more than that, because it did not ask for a return in kind from the motherland, this government is accused by the Conservative party of disloyalty to Canada and to Canadian interests, and in every manufacturing city in the Dominion the campaign is daily waged against it on that ground. We do not fear a comparison of our loyalty with the loyalty of the Conservative party. Whether in French Canada or in English Canada, the Liberal party has been true and loyal to the British empire.

And now a few words in regard to Lord Dundonald himself. Lord Dundonald is spoken of as a soldier and a gentleman; a great soldier and a noble gentleman. We do not find fault with either his military title or his civil standing. He is welcome to it all, and our friends on the other side are welcome to all the advantage the qualities of Lord Dundonald bring them, when they use him for their party purposes. But, I would like to call the attention of the House and of the country to this fact: That Lord Dundonald cannot be protected by the mantle of his noble lineage and high military position, and at the same time act as a party hack and agent of the Conservative party.

Some hon. MEMBERS. Shame.

MR. OLIVER. Hear, hear; it is your shame.

Some hon. MEMBERS. Shame.

MR. OLIVER. Hon. members ought to be ashamed; I am sorry they are not. The attempt is being made to hoodwink the people of this country in regard to this question and to claim immunity for Lord Dundonald for his action as a Tory party hack.

er on the ground of his lineage—
Some hon. MEMBERS. Shame.
MR. OLIVER. All right—and on the ground of his military position. It has been questioned to-day whether Lord Dundonald had a right to speak out as he has done on political platforms here and there throughout this country. No man properly questions his right. He had a perfect right to do so—to go on the platform in Toronto and speak his mind, and make such charges as he pleased against the government of this country—to charge disloyalty if he liked; but he cannot expect to be protected in doing so by the sanctity of his rank or position; and that is what hon. members seem to hope that he is able to do. They hope to have the advantage of a nobleman and a general of the British army fighting in their ranks, while he, so to speak, shall be enclosed in that divinity which doth hedge about a King, and which shall prevent legitimate criticism from his and his opponents.

Let us judge the action of Lord Dundonald by the standards that would be applied to a common, every-day colonial civilian—the Minister of Agriculture if you like—and see just how he stands, and whether he is or is not a partisan of hon. gentlemen opposite. I was struck by a very strong expression which his lordship used in his speech in Toronto. He said he had turned the search-light on the inner workings of the Militia Department. I think a little turning of the search-light on the action of his lordship on that particular occasion would not be amiss. Under what circumstances did he turn on the search-light, and what was the occasion? The occasion was a private or semi-private banquet given in his honor by militia officers of the city and district of

PLEASED WITH THE DISTRICT

The party of Belgian and Parisian bankers, consisting of F. West, Paris, Joseph Brunner, Brussels, and Edward Jacobs, Antwerp, accompanied by W. A. Campbell, of Winnipeg, visited Fort Saskatchewan yesterday to continue their tour of inspection. Their visit gave them a great deal of pleasure. They were delighted with the condition of the crops and the aspect of the country generally. The gentlemen representing, as they do, large European banking interests, are taking their present trip through the west for the purpose of gathering information regarding its resources, climate and possibilities. They will probably invest heavily in Western Canadian lands. This will be one of the minor benefits to be derived from the visit of these financiers; the great benefit will be the immigration which will inevitably set this way from the report which they will give on returning to their European homes.

The party have no hesitancy in stating that their object in coming to Canada is merely to look over the country. All the members of the party are now paying their first visit to the Dominion. They will invest large capital in farm lands or in the development of the natural resources of the country.

The party were entertained by a number of the prominent business men of the town, including members of the city council and Board of Trade, at the club last night. They expressed themselves as thoroughly delighted with the magnificent country in northern Alberta, saying that it was a great eye-opener to them.

This morning Messrs. West and Jacobs left for the south, while Mr. Brunner remained in the city. He visited some of the coal mines down the river this morning.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Pinheadster:
On Wednesday afternoon about five o'clock Edmonton, the nine-year-old son of Mr. Dan McDougall, met with a very painful accident down at Pollock's brick yard. He was riding in the car which carries the clay from the pit to the hopper of the brick machine.

The car was empty and was going at a terrific speed but lightly controlled by the cable and windlass. The operator suddenly remembered that the boy might raise his head and be struck by the bridge at the bottom as he flew under it, a blow that would kill him instantly, so he put on the brakes and stopped the car with a jerk that threw the boy violently against the upper end of the box. The side of his head came into violent contact with the edge of the box the result being that he suffered a very severe scalp wound, the skull being laid bare for several inches; his right ear was almost torn off and his jaw badly bruised. Fortunately the skull was not fractured. The wounded boy was taken without delay to the General Hospital in Edmonton where the required surgical attention is being given very well. The extent of the injuries to the boy's ear can hardly yet be determined. It appears that it was a breach of the discipline of the yard for any one to be allowed to get into that car as the ride is a perilous one in any case.

War Notes

London, July 27th.—The British government is sending instructions to Sir Charles Hardinge, the British ambassador to Russia, to-day, to energetically protest against the sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander by the Russian Vladivostok squadron.

Until the presentation of the note to the Russian government the greatest secrecy will be maintained regarding its contents, but it is known that Premier Balfour and his colleagues have decided to demand that the fullest reparation shall be made by Russia, or measures will be taken to follow up the diplomatic demands.

The British note, as Sir Charles Hardinge will submit it, will not mention the amount of indemnity Russia must pay the owners of the ship and British subjects having goods on the vessel, but all that will be sought will be the establishment of the principle of indemnity and apology. A salute of the British flag must also be conceded and the future protection of neutral shipping assured.

The attitude of the British government is the result of thorough consideration given to the reports received from Sir Charles McDougall, the British minister at Tokyo, and the examination of international law authorities by legal experts. The dispatches from Sir Claude McDougall confirm the reports that the Knight Commander had no contraband of war on board for Japan. The government and all the British authorities, it is asserted, unite on the point that there was no justification for the sinking of the vessel.

It is felt in government circles that the Knight Commander incident overshadows the Red Sea seizures, which practically have been adjusted, but which have failed to settle the question of the rights of neutral commerce.

London, July 27th.—That the British government regards the sinking of the steamer Knight Commander as a breach of international law was confirmed by Premier Balfour in the House of Commons this afternoon. In answering questions regarding the destruction of the Knight Commander and the seizure of the Malacca and other vessels, the Premier said he hoped to be in a position to make a brief statement regarding the Malacca to-morrow. As to the sinking of the Knight Commander he regretted that information which reached him this morning confirmed this regrettable occurrence. Mr. Balfour said: "There is no question of loss of life, but I am afraid there is a question of a breach of international law."

St. Petersburg, July 27th.—The Russian press has been significantly silent for two days past regarding complications over the acts of the Red Sea cruisers. Not a single word of comment appears in this morning's newspapers concerning the sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander, and there is no doubt that the government deprecates the provocative attitude of the British press and probably does not desire that the Russian papers shall add fuel to the flames.

An imperial ukase has been issued placing seven merchantmen purchased abroad during the last few months on the navy list, four of them as second-class cruisers. These four have been redesignated Albatross, Terek, and Khabarovsk. The other three have been renamed Irtysh, Amadyr and Argun, and are listed among the transports. The former identity of these vessels is not revealed. There is reason to believe that the cruisers will be sent at once to the Red Sea, to replace the volunteer fleet steamers, the war status of which is in dispute.

Constantinople, July 27th.—The Russian statement to the effect that vessels of the volunteer fleet hereafter will not be used to operate for war purposes is regarded in Turkish official circles as settling the question of their passage through the Dardanelles. It is held that as they will only have the status of merchantmen there is no reason to refuse them permission to traverse the straits as heretofore.

The British cruiser Lancaster is still off the entrance to the Dardanelles.

Bulletin Special Dispatch.
Regina, July 30th.—Bremner, charged with receiving six hundred dollars from Wilcox, being part of the proceeds of the celebrated mail robbery, again came up before McCausland J. P. T. C. Johnston, Crown prosecutor, called Mr. Carter, manager of the Union Bank at Moosejaw, who stated that on the 25th of November, 1903, Bremner deposited $600 in Bank of Hamilton bills to the credit of Wilcox and on December 3rd, 1903, Wilcox drew on the Bank for $600 and the draft was honored.

At this stage of the proceedings C. E. D. Wood, who with Willoughby of Moosejaw, represented the accused, said they were willing to waive preliminary investigation.

Bremner was then committed for trial and was at once arraigned before Judge Newlands when he pleaded "not guilty."

He was released on bail of $4,000 security being Marlatt and B. C. Marshalls, proprietors of the Maple Leaf hotel, Moosejaw.

INJUNCTION GRANTED

TO FRANK M. GRAY

Restraining Carpenters and Painters Union From Interfering with Him in his Business

The Hon. Mr. Justice Scott this morning granted an interim injunction restraining all the members of the local carpenters' and painters' unions from inducing persons to break contracts made with, or to prevent persons employing Frank W. Gray, and also from inducing men to refuse to work for him. This injunction was granted on affidavits alleging a conspiracy on the part of the members of these unions to prevent Mr. Gray from getting business because he does not employ union men exclusively. The affidavits alleged that two union men in his employ had been fined and later expelled for continuing to work for him, and that several jobs had been prevented from going to Mr. Gray by reason of the union's enmity to him.

FORT DEFEATED

The Strathcona baseball team administered a thorough defeat to the Fort Saskatchewan team in Strathcona yesterday evening. There was a fair attendance at the game, a number driving over from Edmonton. Before the game started there was little doubt in the minds of the spectators that the Fort would win out. The Strathcona team however were in splendid form and played first class ball. They led from the start and at no stage of the game did things look any way alarming for them. As the game progressed they became stronger. The Fort appeared to good advantage on bases and in field work but the batting abilities of the Strathcona team gave them the victory. Dobson's batting was a feature of the game. The Fort Saskatchewan battery was Slaves and Atkinson and the Strathcona battery, Dobson and Dobson. The score stood 11 to 5. Umpire, Jackson, Strathcona.

DUNDONALD AFFAIR AGAIN

Montreal. The banquet, I say, was private or semi-private, I am not prepared to say which; but it was certainly not public, inasmuch as only one newspaper was represented at it—so the newspaper itself has stated. Lord Dundonald has told us in his manifesto and on the platform that he had great grievances against this government of Canada; that the empire had great grievances against it; that the loyal people of this country had great grievances against it, because of its neglect of Canada's imperial defences; that we were living in a fool's paradise, at the mercy of our neighbors because of the neglect of this government. Could language be stronger? Lord Dundonald did not deal with these charges at that Montreal banquet—a proper matter to be dealt with, if ever there was one, at a strictly military banquet. That surely would have been a subject worthy of turning the search-light on; but it was not upon that subject he turned the search-light. His search-light was turned upon the inner workings of the department. It was turned upon the appointment of one Dr. Piche to a position in the militia force; and when the question came to be thrashed out in Parliament—and this has never yet been denied—the position of the Minister of Agriculture was found to be the correct position, and the position of Lord Dundonald the wrong position, looked at from a military point of view. The Minister of Agriculture had asked that a competent man be placed in a position requiring competence. Lord Dundonald was offended because a man who was not competent was not placed in that position.

The charge was not even made against the Militia Department of which he was an official and with which he was connected; it was made against the government of the day through the Minister of Agriculture. The charge was political interference under the administration of the government of the day. It was not a military matter; it was not a militia matter; it was not turning the searchlight on the defenceless condition of Canada. What was it? If the Minister of Agriculture or some other plain colonial had attended a banquet as a guest under such circumstances and had made that statement to the gentlemen present, what would he have been doing? He would have been attempting to arouse political dissension and animosity in the minds of the officers of the militia there present against the government of the day.

Lord Dundonald was not turning any searchlight on, because it was a private or semi-private banquet, and not a public demonstration. It was so private that his remarks were not published when the proceedings of the banquet were published. They were suppressed—suppressed is the word used—at the request of Lord Dundonald's friends. Did he turn on the searchlight? They only came to light when some injudicious partisan of the opposition, having heard accidentally of the remarks of Lord Dundonald, thought they were too good to let drop. He wanted to use such good political ammunition in public. He was not willing to let it go as it was intended to go, and stay where it was intended to stay, where it would poison the minds of the officers of the militia against the administration, but would not bring discredit upon the General Officer Commanding. But when this injudicious newspaper friend gave the matter to the light of day, and when his lordship was called in question about it by the militia authorities, when he was brought to the mark and had to either say he had said it, or take it back, then, as he says, he turned the searchlight on.

I take the liberty of saying that the action of Lord Dundonald at that banquet in Montreal, what he said and the way he said it, is fair evidence that what he did there he had been doing on previous occasions, and had he not been brought to book at that time, he would have been doing it yet. And what would he have been doing? Acting as the political agent of the party of the opposition, abusing his position as an officer of the imperial government and as an officer of the government of Canada, for the purpose of advancing the party interests of hon. gentlemen opposite. What else? Had a private individual done this, no one would have had a word to say in his defence. How much more guilty, then, was Lord Dundonald, who lent the prestige of his name and reputation to everything he said? Let us have fair play in this matter.

This incident does not stand alone. Let us deal with these things on a fair footing and call them by their right names. If we are to have fair play, let us have it; and if we are to have treachery, let us have treachery and deal with it as such.

Some weeks have passed since that time, during which Lord Dundonald has been the recipient of numbers of demonstrations in his honor. It was the privilege of Canadian citizens to give such demonstrations in his honor or as they wished, and the privilege of Lord Dundonald to accept them if he saw fit to do so. He saw fit to accept them as being strictly non-political. They were given to and accepted by him as non-political. There was a demonstration in Renfrew and another in Ottawa in his honor, and it was thoroughly understood that they were strictly non-political. A demonstration was offered him by the people of Toronto, which it was as thoroughly understood, would be strictly non-political as were the others. I presume that that demonstration was accepted by His Lordship on the same understanding as were the others. There were many people gathered in Toronto at that meeting for the purpose of doing honor to His Lordship and the position he held in the army and the English nobility. No doubt many were present who felt aggrieved at his dismissal and others who acquiesced in that dismissal, as I believe every member of the opposition does; because although this question has been raised two or three times in the House, not one member of the opposition has ever dared to challenge a vote of the House on the course taken by the government and so place on record his views with regard to it. People went to that non-political demonstration, knowing it to be such on the authority of the chairman of the committee. But what happened? Lord Dundonald made there a violent attack on the government of this country. He abused, as he had done before, the position in which he found himself. This we have on the authority of Mr. Ellis, the chairman of the committee. He took advantage of the demonstration, in which he must have known there were Liberals taking part, to make a violent attack on the government and its policy. He had a perfect right to do so as a citizen, but he cannot be upheld in doing so as a man of strict honor.

I think it is well that we should have a straight understanding with regard to this question, and just in order that there may be no mistake in regard to what I say, let me quote the words of Mr. Ellis, as published in an interview which appeared in the Toronto World. Mr. Ellis, I may say is a leading Conservative of the city of Toronto. In that interview he said:

"I was surprised at the whole tenor of his remarks. I do not think the committee expected it; I certainly did not."

There was therefore a distinct breach of faith with the committee which organized this demonstration—at least as far as the chairman was concerned and a large number of those who attended. It appears that his attitude and the remarks he made were so far aside from what was expected, so far regardless of propriety, that they brought about this discussion in the British House of Commons, and the statement by the Secretary of War that he has been requested to return to England to speak in his own defence.

I was somewhat amused at the construction placed upon this statement by the hon. member for South Norfolk (Mr. Tisdale). He said he would venture the prophecy that Lord Dundonald was being recalled in order to give him some higher position. Well, although I am not familiar with the workings of the British government, I know that it is customary in the management of public affairs in that country for the government, when they find it necessary to discipline some of their high officials, to let them down easy by appointing them to some other office. It is quite possible that Lord Dundonald may receive some such appointment from the British government, and no one here will object to anything which the British government may do with or for him. But I would like to call attention to this fact, and I think it is perfectly right that I should do so, because we have heard a great deal about the transcendent military ability of Lord Dundonald. If he is a great military genius, if he has a great military record, then certainly, let the cause be what it may, the loss of his services to Canada will be considerable. But if it should happen per adventure that his record is not so transcendent, that his abilities are not so marvellous, then the loss to Canada will be considerably minimized. And in looking over the papers, I find that at the time when the British army needed the best officers it could get, at a time of stress and trouble, the British government apparently did not think sufficiently of those transcendent abilities or this marvellous record to appoint Lord Dundonald to a command in South Africa, but he went there just as our friend from North Victoria (Mr. Sam Hughes) did, as a soldier of fortune, and secured an appointment in the field after he got there.

Mr. SAM HUGHES. I object to the use of the words, soldier of fortune.

Some hon. MEMBERS. Oh, oh.

Mr. SAM HUGHES—coming from a gentleman of such calibre as the hon. member for Alberta (Mr. Oliver).

Mr. OLIVER. I will withdraw the expression and say instead a soldier of misfortune.

Mr. SAM HUGHES. A victim of the intrigue and cowardice of the Liberal government.

Mr. OLIVER. As the hon. member has charged British Conservative governments of the present and past with cowardice, we can accept with equanimity his criticism of this government. I wanted to say that this was no discredit to Lord Dundonald, and I do not wish to be understood as impugning any discredit to him. He may have been a most successful soldier in South Africa. He may have been even as successful as our hon. friend for North Victoria.

Some hon. MEMBERS. Oh, no.

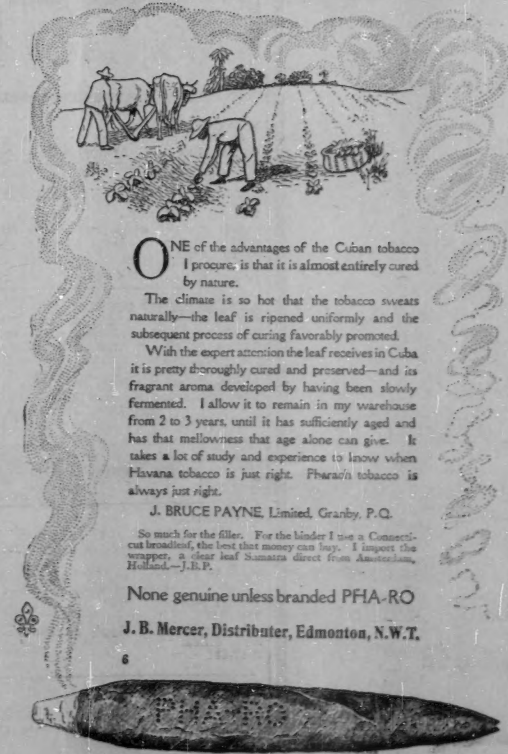

Mr. OLIVER. Although we must admit that he did not say as much about it. I merely want to point out that this record of his, and these military qualifications of his, the loss of which are so much bemoaned on the part of this unfortunate country, do not seem to have struck the British government at the time when they needed the best talent and the most of it; that they could get. Therefore, I am bound to suppose in view of all the circumstances, that when His Lordship comes to take his place in the fighting ranks of the members of the opposition as a soldier of fortune once more, neither will they gain so much, nor will Canada lose so much by being deprived of his military services. We do not grudge hon. gentlemen opposite their new recruit. We wish him luck of the company he has and we wish them luck of the qualifications he has brought to them. The campaign which they instituted on his behalf throughout this country is of a character according thoroughly with the campaign which his lordship himself initiated while he was still in the service of the country.

ONE of the advantages of the Cuban tobacco I propose, is that it is almost entirely cured by nature.

The climate is so hot that the tobacco sweats naturally—the leaf is ripened uniformly and the subsequent process of curing favorably promoted.

With the expert attention the leaf receives in Cuba it is pretty thoroughly cured and preserved—and its fragrant aroma developed by having been slowly fermented. I allow it to remain in my warehouse from 2 to 3 years, until it has sufficiently aged and has that mellowness that age alone can give. It takes a lot of study and experience to know when Havana tobacco is just right. Havana tobacco is always just right.

The Canadian Northwest Homestead Regulations

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the Northwest Territories, excepting 8 and 16, which has not been homesteaded, or reserved to provide wood lots for settlers, or for other purposes, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age to the extent of one quarter section, or 160 acres, more or less.

ENTRY.—Entry may be made in the district in which the land to be taken is situated, or, if the homesteader desires he may, on application to the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, or the local agent for the district in which the land is situated, receive authority for some one to make entry for him. A fee of $10.00 is charged for a homestead entry.

HOMESTEAD DUTIES.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required by the provisions of the Dominion Lands Act and the amendments thereto, to perform the conditions connected therewith, under one of the following upon cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years:

(1) At least six months' residence years.
(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, reside upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by residence upon the first homestead, if the second homestead is in the vicinity of the first homestead.

(3) If a settler has obtained a patent for his homestead, or a certificate for the issue of such patent, countersigned in the manner prescribed by this Act, and has obtained entry for a second homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by residence upon the first homestead, if the second homestead is in the vicinity of the first homestead.
(4) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon said land.

The term "vicinity" used above is meant to indicate the same township or an adjoining or cornering township.

A settler who avails himself of the provisions of Clauses 2, 3, or 4, must possess an equity in the land to be entered, and must have a building for their accommodation, and have besides 30 acres substantiated.

Every homesteader who fails to comply with the requirements of the homestead law is liable to have his entry cancelled, and the land may be again thrown open for entry.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the local agent, sub-agent, or Homestead Inspector. Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands, at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

Information.—Newly arrived immigrants will receive at the Immigration Office, in Winnipeg, or at any Dominion Lands Office, in Manitoba or the Northwest Territories, information as to the lands that are open for entry, and from the officers, in charge, free of expense, advice and assistance in securing land to suit them. Full information respecting the land, timber, coal and mineral laws, as well as respecting Dominion Lands in the Railway Belt in British Columbia, may be obtained upon application to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, Manitoba, or to any of the Dominion Lands Agents in Manitoba or the Northwest Territories.

JAMES A. SMART,

Deputy Minister of the Interior. N.B.—In addition to Free Grant Lands to which the regulations above stated refer, thousands of acres of most desirable lands are available for lease or purchase from railroad and other corporations and private firms in Western Canada.

He takes Abbey's Salt and preserves health and strength.

ABBEY'S SALT is responsible for many an athlete's good condition. It protects him against stomach and bowel troubles—keeps the whole digestive tract clean and healthy—purifies the blood.

Wetaskiwin's fair will be held on October 6th and 7th.

The checks for the prizes offered at the Edmonton exhibition have been issued by Secretary Tims.

Brandon baseball team defeated the touring Calgary team in the second game of the series by a score of 4 to 2.

The regular meeting of the Women's Public Hospital Aid society will be held on Monday afternoon at three o'clock.

A breakdown in the telegraph service east of Calgary is responsible for our telegraphic dispatches being somewhat curtailed to-day.

The Rev. W. J. Clark, of London, Ont., will occupy the pulpit of the Edmonton Presbyterian church tomorrow, morning and evening.

Quite a number of Edmonton people attended the baseball match in Strathcona between Fort Saskatchewan and Strathcona last night.

Four young men, one a Chinaman, appear at the police court this afternoon to answer to a charge of bicycling on the sidewalks of the city.

Rev. C. W. Cory of Strathcona, will preach in the Baptist church on Sunday morning. In the evening Pastor McDonald will preach on "With Both Hands Earnestly."

A tennis tournament is in progress on the courts in the rear of the new Alberta College building. Some interesting matches will be played this afternoon and evening.

Mr. David Fraser, of Strathcona, formerly head engineer for the Brackman-Ker Milling Company, has been appointed boiler inspector under the Northwest government.

The Winnipeg Tribune has issued a special exhibition number consisting of over fifty pages profusely illustrated. The issue is exceedingly creditable to the Tribune's enterprise.

The police broke up an "impromptu concert" in the east end near the corner of Fifth street and Kinslino avenue last night. The man who lost his hat may recover same by applying at the Fire Hall.

Plainsdealer: Barley harvest has begun in this district. We understand that Mr. Harry Burns cut a small field of barley on the 20th. Doubtless this is one of the first, but cutting will be general next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McLay of Heceta Hills take this means of expressing their deep appreciation of the many acts of sympathy and kindness extended to them by their many friends in Edmonton during their late serious bereavement.

The corner stone of the new Baptist church in Strathcona will be laid on Tuesday evening next at 7:30 o'clock. Addresses will be given by Rev. A. M. McDonald, Edmonton, Rev. Dr. McEldair, Principal of Brandon college, Rev. A. McDonald, of Leduc, and other local speakers.

On the night of Thursday, July 21, an Indian wanted for horse stealing at Calgary, broke out of the Ponoka lock-up, where he had been confined, and cleared the town. He was promptly followed by the local Northwest Mounted policeman and after a chase of five days was recaptured on the reserve to which he had fled. He was taken back to Wetaskiwin and thence to Calgary the next day to stand trial.

Plainsdealer: The second competition for the class medals of the Strathcona Rifle Club was held at the range last Friday afternoon. J. J. McKenzie won the first class medal for the second time and Jas. Groves, of Rabbit Hill, the second class medal. The scores were not very high as a stiff breeze was blowing which interfered with accurate shooting. The next competition will be on Friday next, when there will be shooting at the 200, 500 and 800 yard ranges.

Free Press: Among the Edmonton residents attending the fair are: A. C. Fraser, manager of the Merchants bank; Harry Cooper, manager of the A. McDonald Co., wholesale grocers; John Somerville, Jr., Perry Olds, of the Union bank staff; Fred Jackson and Mrs. Jackson, J. MacPherson and Mrs. MacPherson, Mrs. Bruce Powley and children, Mrs. Matheson, Mrs. and Miss Mary Gallagher, J. Henderson, and Walter Armstrong, E. G. Hanton, of the staff of J. H. Morris & Co., and V. Toole of the Victoria hotel and the Misses Oliver.

The Strathcona Plainsdealer says that O. C. Pedersen, C.P.R. employment agent, returned this week from a business trip to Winnipeg and up the Prince Albert branch. He found difficulty in getting men on the Prince Albert branch owing to the great activity of the Canadian Northern Co.

in pushing construction in Saskatchewan. He says the contractors still hope to get the grading completed to Strathcona this fall. All the farmers' teams available are at work on the grades. Mr. Pedersen now has the employment of all navvies used by the C.P.R. on all their lines between Moose Jaw and Revelstoke and Nelson.

W. F. Studebaker has returned from spending a week at the World's Fair at St. Louis. The exposition is of colossal magnitude and is most successful. The exhibits are splendid in every conceivable line. Tens of thousands are continually going to and coming from the city. The Canadian exhibits are of a very high order and compare favorably with those of any other country. There is a splendid display of Canadian machinery which is attracting a great deal of attention. The Canadians at the Fair patronized their own national building and saw that strangers were shown through it. This was in direct contrast to the forbidding nature of the authorities in many of the states' buildings. Mr. Studebaker thinks that the fair will not be at its best until the fall, as numerous buildings are still in course of erection.

PERSONAL

Miss Oliver went to Regina on Thursday's train.

Mr. E. N. Butchart, of Midway, Ont., is spending a week with friends in the city.

W. H. Olive of Atlin, B.C., has spent a couple of days looking over the Edmonton district.

Alex. Stewart, of Brampton, Ont., brother of Wm. Stewart, of this city, arrived in Edmonton last night.

STABBING AFFRAY

A number of Russians are mixed up in a case which comes up at the police court this evening. Last night a Russian laid the complaint that he had been set upon and stabbed with a knife by a fellow countryman. The city police immediately investigated and arrested the man who is said to have handled the knife. Another Russian who appeared to be mixed up in the case and who was wanted for a witness, appeared loath to give his name or tell anything of what he knew. The police thought it wise to take him along for safe-keeping until the case is heard. All three are now at the fire hall awaiting trial tonight. A quarrel among a number of Russians is said to have arrived at a head last night with the above result.
